TV Commercials Scheduled to be Filmed in Bethel

Bethel is to be the site for two television commercials which are to be aired at Thanksgiving time. One will promote a new line of Christmas cards for the Hallmark Card Company and the other being for Alka Seltzer. The advertising agency is the Chicago-based firm of Foote, Cone and Belding. The production company is Myers, Grier and Cuesta, New York City.

Several locations were considered before deciding to come to Bethel, including Williamstown, Mass., and towns in Montana, Colorado, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Bethel was selected for its location, its proximity to the Sunday River Ski Area for snow-making, for its surroundings and the promise of excellent cooperation from all concerned.

The actual locales for the filming have not yet been decided upon. Being considered are the Dana Douglass residence in Mayville, the West Parish Congregational Church, and the Broad Street residences of Burton Newton, Peter Weeks and Merton Brown.

A quantity of snow will be made at each location and filming will be done late at night. Owners of private residences will receive an allowance for the use of their property. The agency is to make donations to the Bethel Fire Department and to the Bethel Water District for assistance in the project.

The actual filming is to be on Nov. 17 and 19. Bethel residents are to be used for all scenes.

SOCIETY FEATURES NEWRY HISTORY AT NOV. 5 MEETING

Aspects of Newry's past was the featured topic of the meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held Thursday evening, Nov. 5, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Miss Paula Wight, author of a recent history of the town, presented a paper providing a historical sketch of the major developments in Newry from the late 18th century to the present. (Miss Wight's paper appears elsewhere in this issue.) Following the historical sketch, slides of old photographs relating to Newry's past were shown including some of the 1955 and 1980 celebrations of the 150th and 175th anniversaries of incorporation respectively as well as people, mills and homes of the town through the years. A special Newry exhibit was also featured and may be seen for the next few months by anyone visiting the Moses Mason Museum.

Prior to the program a short

Perry Schaffer, location manager, is looking for people to appear in the commercials. He anticipates that 15 or so people will be needed. Schaffer further said he will contact local sources for participants.

The Sunday River Ski Area is to provide the snow for the commercials. The snow-making equipment to be used has been rented from a Boston firm and the project will have no effect on the snow-making operations currently underway at the ski area. A special feature of the equipment to be used is the low noise-level, considerably less than that used on the mountain, which will be appreciated because of equipment location and hour of filming.

C. P. S. IS "TEAMING-UP" FOR FUN 'N FITNESS

Crescent Park School in Bethel is again participating in the national Post Fun 'n Fitness Program this year. The program allows schools throughout the country to get free athletic equipment for bonus point seals collected from boxes of Post cereals. The "fun 'n fitness proof-of-purchase seals" can be found on the side or top of the Post cereal boxes.

CARD OF THANKS

Members of the West Bethel Chapel Aid wish to thank everyone who helped to make our Christmas Fair the best ever. Receipts were over $600.

In the Post "Fun 'n Fitness" program last year, CPS collected over 1,000 points. With these, six playground balls were obtained from Post for the school.

Items available range from a jungle gym for 47,925 points to an all-sport rule book for 95 points. "We can collect up until the last day of school in June," says Ms. Merrill, "and with fifteen different Post cereals available to get bonus point seals, I am optimistic that we can do as good as we did last year and hope we can do even better!"

Warren Emery is coordinating work crews for construction of the Ambulance Barn in Bryant Pond. Many thanks to Ken Koskela and the town crew who helped pour the cement floor. What an improvement to have a decent floor.

Volunteers are needed with all stages of construction. If you would like to pound some nails to help out, contact Warren Emery (674-2707, work, or 674-2866, home).

The Auxiliary is busy getting ready for its booster club dinner Saturday night. Everyone is needed to pitch in and help.

The training meeting will be held Wednesday night, Nov. 18, at 7:00 at Lodgeview Auditorium.

P. Korhonen of Newry for use in their sauna. Hank called on us to swap history books and got a bag of rutabagas which grew in abundance in my garden.

Gilles Viens, Andy Aron and Roland Bernier worked on the stove pipe at the church to try to correct the installation and prevent creosote problems. Ray Labreque donated some dry kindling for the church.

There was much hunting activity in the area over the week end with many camps surrounded by vehicles.

Arlene Bernier held a class at Ellen Hutchins' home in Andover Saturday. The next one is scheduled for Nov. 21. Ellis River is back to its normal placid flow—quite a contrast to a few days earlier when it was foamy, rushing with sprays of tan colored water shooting up over those rocks.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in reference to the proposed closing of Tyler Road, the road to the falls in Mason. If it were now July or August and 90° outside, more people would be thinking of where they could swim.

If the road to the falls is closed to all public usage, there will be no access to the swimming hole without trespassing. On the "King's Highway" side of Pleasant River there is no public access—it is all private property. Granted some people use this approach but, this privilege could be revoked by the landowners. This bank is difficult for an adult—impossible for someone carrying a small child. There is no place to park that is not right on the road. Would you want to be getting your children out of the car as logging trucks go by?

If the road to the falls is closed only to vehicle use and swimmers are permitted to walk in, again there is no parking except on the road and again there is the danger of logging trucks. If a parking area was made at the beginning of Tyler Road, it would be up to the whim of the landowner how long it existed and who could park there.

The current landowners assure everyone that they are to "feel welcome" to swim. Would you "feel welcome" with trees intentionally blocking the road? When the current owners sell there is no guarantee the new owners will allow swimmers or fishermen the same privilege.

This swimming area now has a county road to it. It should not be left to the landowners to make us "feel welcome"! It is not their swimming hole—it belongs to all! Please attend the commissioners hearing Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 4 p. m. in South Paris and help keep "the road to the falls" open to all as it always has been.

Where will you swim next summer?

Sincerely,
Nancy W. Grover

To the Editor:

This is a letter I am sending to the Oxford County Commissioners.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to you, for a very personal reason, about keeping Tyler Road in Mason open to the public.

I am 71 years old, and live on the opposite side of Pleasant River. I have rheumatoid arthritis in both knees and recently suffered a mild left sided stroke. In no way can I navigate the steep rocky bank on this side of the river, nor could I walk from where the illegal blockade was placed last season.

I would dearly love to be able to sit on the bridge abutment and watch my two small granddaughters paddle around and learn to swim.

I cannot go unless by car, and would not like to feel that I was trespassing on private property, as I would be, if the road to the falls was closed.

Sincerely,
Clare W. Gabriel

I cannot attend the Commissioners Hearing, but I hope you will.

To the Editor:

Citizens of West Bethel, Bethel and the surrounding area, there is a petition before the County Commissioners to close the so-called Tyler Road in Mason. This road is the one that goes to the "Falls" swimming hole. Remember when you went up there this year and the trees were across the road? Since that time we have found that this is a county road and the trees removed. But if enough people do not go to the Commissioners' meeting this road will be blocked off permanently and all will have to seek permission to cross private property to go swimming. Comments

It will be the annual Christmas meeting with special refreshments and anyone attending is requested to bring something from the past relating to Christmas decorations, toys, etc. Slides of "Indian Raid '81" will also be shown. President Bennett also urged anyone wishing to serve on the various committees of the Society to notify the Director as the Trustees will soon be reviewing the committees. It was announced that a special program will be held on Nov. 14, 2-4 p. m., at the Moses Mason House when Collette Roche, President of the Alliance Francaise of Portland will speak on the Franco-American victory at the Battle of Yorktown which ended the American War for Independence. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend. A selection of art work by the third grade students of Mrs. Barbara Ferguson was displayed. This related to Molly Ockett and resulted from a talk given to the class by Catherine Newell, author of the Society's recent Molly Ockett booklet, who spoke. A new booklet, "Dr. Moses Mason and His House" by Society Director Stanley Howe with sketches by Sue Wright was also brought to the attention of the members and is now available in the Museum Store. President Bennett also thanked Cecil Conrad for repairing the Indian that was presented to the Society during Indian Raid '81 and which now graces the entrance to the museum.

WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOC. RECEIVES BIOGRAPHIES

The Woodstock Historical Society has recently obtained biographical sketches of some of its more famous residents, past and present. These are invaluable additions to the Society's archives.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Russell, summer residents of Woodstock, and the daughter and son-in-law of George Allan England, provided a biography of the well-known writer. England was a summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard. He was editor of the Harvard "Crimson" and tutor to F.D.R. He worked for a while as principal at Woodstock High School before embarking on a literary career. At one time he was Socialist candidate for Governor of Maine. An Arctic explorer and a friend and confidante of Ernest Hemingway, he wrote many articles and books such as "Keep Off the Grass", "Under the Bough", and "Rod Bender and Company".

At the Society's request, General James Alger also supplied his own autobiographical information. A resident of both Bethel and Woodstock as well as Hawaii, New Mexico and the Philippines, General Alger of course had a most distinguished military career. He commanded the 2nd Battalion of the 1st Armored Regiment in World War II in North Africa. During the Korean War, he was Chief of Staff of the 45th Infantry Division and later Chief of Staff of the Korean Military Advisory Group. He served in the have been made that the road would be left open as long as people "behave" themselves. Do you want to take that chance? If it is discontinued it could be gated anytime the landowners disagreed with someone.

Anyone interested in keeping this road open PLEASE make arrangements to attend the meeting at the South Paris Court House on Nov. 17 at 4:00 p. m.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the parents and children living in West Bethel I would like to thank all those who helped organize the Community Halloween party at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall.

A special tribute and thank you goes to Louis and Florine Paul, and their family, for the "haunted house". Truly this was one of the finest pieces of artistry and imagination that could be found. All those who went through it truly got the "Halloween" feeling.

Sincerely,
Rev. Norman F. Rust

He was also Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations, Department of the Army, and a Commander in the Canal Zone. He has received numerous decorations from the U. They have included: The Glenn Mountain House, Birch Villa Inn (the present Lake Christopher Campgrounds), the Ricker House (now Howard MacKillop's house), and the Dudley House on the Gore Road to name but a few. Mrs. Elsie Bryant has provided the Society with pictures of the Dudley House and the Ricker family. Any information anyone has about these buildings or the people who ran them would be greatly appreciated by the Society.

A HISTORICAL SKETCH

—NEWRY FROM 1780

It is generally accepted that the first settlers to appear in Newry were Benjamin Barker, settling on Sunday River, and Lihel Smith Jr. who settled at the mouth of Bear River. Ten years later, the 1790 census would record 12 families with a total population of 50 inhabitants. The presence of the "family" in Newry's growth and development cannot be overlooked if one is to come to understand its character and rural nature. Newry's settlement was a slow process and by its incorporation some 15 years later there would be settled families whose future generations would continue to live, work, and change for years to come within its boundaries. For those who would remain, adjustments would have to be made.

A look at its early settlement and development will lay a backdrop from which one can understand the need for future adjustments. Impetus for future growth and development would come with the decision made by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to sell a portion of its unappropriated lands to Sarah Bostwick in February of 1796. Those few settlers who had arrived prior to Jan. 1, 1784 would be allowed 100 acres divided in such a manner as not to injure the surrounding land but include any improvements they may have made, provided, however, they would pay $5.00 within a year.

The deed stipulated, as conditions for the Grant, that 12 more families be settled by 1784, another 13 by 1800. The township of Bostwick would provide the opportunity for future settlement as well as a needed sense of organization.

By 1800 the population would increase to 92 and more importantly this figure would more than double to 202 by 1810. The township of Bostwick was neither equipped to, nor capable of, meeting the demands of this increased population. By January of 1805 the inhabitants of this area would petition the Massachusetts Legislature to be incorporated into a town of Newry for which final approval was granted on June 15, 1805.

Twenty-five years after its first settlers began their homesteads and carving their lives out of the area, Newry would become home. However, just as building their homes and clearing the land was no easy task, organizing a young town would prove to be a long term concern.

Mother Nature, having seen fit to place a mountain range between the town's two major rivers, created a physical barrier, that despite the road built to connect them, would separate the town in such a way that each side would, despite similarities, grow and develop independent of the other.

To facilitate the handling of Town affairs regarding the provision of local services, the town was initially divided into two districts, these being Sunday River, or South Newry as it would be later referred to, and Bear River, or North Newry. While the selectmen would retain much control and town meeting would be the guiding hand, each district would be held accountable for their own areas.

With the county roads laid out in 1810 and again in 1823, as well as the eventual road leading up Bear River to Letter B, now Grafton, not long after, people would begin to move further up the valleys of each river consistent with rural developments. By 1827 two more districts would be added to handle these new areas of responsibility. Each River would now have an upper and lower district. Sunday River would continue to have two districts while Bear River would have four by 1837. At this time portions of Andover West Surplus and Grafton were annexed to Newry and an additional two districts would be created to take care of these as well. By 1842 these districts would be marked specifically as to the boundaries to prevent future problems and conflicts as the town's physical boundaries were completed and its population was reaching its highest point.

Finding a means of adjustment to accommodate the increase in area and population movement was a day to day, year to year task when it came to providing needed and expected local services. However, the young town would have other concerns confronting it other than those that were most apparent. The young town not only experienced growing pains, but also a few lessons.

During its first 30 years the town would be sued "for not being provided with a camp kettle as they say", would refuse to dispose of the Massachusetts laws until five years after Maine became a state, would need to petition the State Legislature to ask that the town's past procedures and records be established due to the technicality that the town officers were not sworn in and the inaccurate dating of warrants for 17 years, and to top it off, the town would be required to act on a petition to the legislature on the part of a few inhabitants wishing to be set off from Newry and annexed to Bethel.

By the end of the 1840's the foundation would be firmly in place upon which the town would progress. Everything looked promising for increased prosperity. However, the mid 1800's would be Newry's heyday as it were.

Records of the period from 1850 to 1880 show the significance of farming as a means of making a living and the improved condition of the town's roads made access to outside markets more feasible. This period was also the beginning of outside influences which once having run their course would set the town on its present direction.

Newry's population would hit its peak in 1880 with a total population of 474 inhabitants. These 474 individuals would be spread over both rivers and no central business district around which the town could further bind its growth would develop. As a result the town's roads would also provide a way out for those who would seek greater opportunities elsewhere.

The influx of individuals seeking to take advantage of the town's natural resources be they tourist, lumber company or wood product manufacturer would provide other areas of employment at a time when the farm was no longer able to support those who would choose to remain. The years just prior to 1900 and those few after, would see many of these outside influences disappear, and once again adjustments would have to be made.

1930 would find but 188 inhabitants remaining at a time when trying to make a living could be its most difficult. The family farm would be beneficial and in some cases necessary. This would be a period when many would live here, but travel to work where available. Lumbermen would still be important, but most of the mills would no longer exist except for the occasional "portable mill".

The tourist would be a source of income for some families who had the means and facilities to cater to them. The mid 1900's would find Newry's residents depending on their own skills and imaginations much as Newry's early settlers, however, they now had 20th century aids to assist them. Eventually the outsider would once again become a dominant force in Newry's economic life, but this time it would not always be a welcome sight, and present day Newry is a town with a solid knowledge of its past with roots that have grown strong through the years wishing nothing more than to be kept a nice place to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dennis went to Madison to a square dance party Sunday. They had refreshments of cider, apples and apple pie. A good time was had by all.

Sent in by Eva Yates:

Another new Monday and its cool and cloudy. We got a few flakes of snow on Saturday but I hope that's all until after Christmas. Then we can hibernate but not before Christmas. The stores have their Christmas gowns all on and its not Thanksgiving yet. The new water pipe is laid but it will be the hunting season is here and the people are all wild at hunting time. If a pair of pants hang on a clothesline some one will put a couple of bullet holes through them and swear he thought it was a moose. So watch out for your pants—and a bright orange vest always looks like a Canada goose to some hunters. What a lovely week last week was till Friday—and that day it rained and Old Go-Shoes accepted an invitation to go to Gorham for a shopping spree. Why not? The Go-

Shoes had been on the hook since Monday. They were getting uneasy.

Isn't it nice to celebrate Veterans' Day on the proper day? I hope they will celebrate George Washington's day on the proper day too. I hate to see people try to hard to fool themselves as they do. As the lady wrote we changed the clocks but that was all the time was the same. The sun did not back up an hour.

We three, Peggy, Joe and Eva, attended Rumford Grange Saturday night. It is the right date for Bear River Grange to meet this next Saturday night but two of our members will be gone so I doubt if there will be any meeting. Only six or seven members we can depend on. It doesn't make much for a very good meeting.

Launa Hutchins visited her mother and Joe Sunday afternoon. Peggy Blake is moving to Doon's Trailer Park for the winter. Barbara Yates was in East Wilton one day this past week on business.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank our family and friends for the warm words, beautiful cards, and lovely gifts in sharing our happiness on the arrival of twins.

NOTES FROM

Evans Notch

White Mountain National Forest

Boy Scouts from Troop #44 of Norton, Mass., volunteered their services to gather litter along backcountry trails and at backcountry shelters this past week end. Troop #44's volunteers efforts saved tax payer dollars for debris pick-up and will further enhance the Forest visitor's enjoyment of backcountry areas.

The snowmobiling and ski season will soon be upon us. Free Winter Recreation Maps are available from the Evans Notch Ranger District office in Bethel. Snowmobilers are to be reminded that the Deer Hill Road will again be closed to snowmobile traffic with seven salvage sales operating in that area. The Evans Notch Highway, State Rt. 113, may also be closed to snowmobiling due to truck traffic over the road this winter. Forest Service officials will be meeting with the Maine Dept. of Transportation on Nov. 16 to discuss winter road management of Evans Notch Highway.

Firewood thefts increase during this time of the year, and firewood gatherers are reminded to obtain a permit for picking up dead and down material from the National Forest. Firewood is available free of charge from the National Forest; however, with the large number of ongoing salvage sales, we encourage individuals to check with us prior to gathering wood from the Evans Notch Ranger District.

The program to salvage approximately 45 million board feet of timber blown over in the December, 1980 windstorm continues. Three salvage sales were recently sold and include Lombard Pond, Heffer and Bradley Brook. The Shell Pond Brook Blowdown Sale and the Evergreen Valley Resort Area Blowdown Sale will be sold on Nov. 19th and 30th respectively. The Moose, Albany Mountain and Black Sable blowdown sales will be sold in early December. Preparation efforts continue on ten additional salvage sales to be sold this winter. Timber operators interested in purchasing salvage sales should contact Jerry Fitzgerald or Rick McVey.

Regional Forester, Steve Yurich viewed salvage program efforts last Wednesday, Nov. 4. Mr. Yurich visited with District employees and local citizens about management of the 16 National Forests in the 20 state Eastern region of the U. S. Forest Service.

Supt. Trudy Akers if interested. As of Monday morning there have been only four deer tagged at Mills' Market Game Inspection Station. Gary Milligan of the East Andover Road was the first lucky hunter.

There was a good turn out at the benefit supper Saturday night and the committee wishes to thank everyone who helped in any way to make it such a success.

Mrs. Elsie Hewey and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston were super guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gibbs last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston took Mrs. Elsie Hewey to Cape Elizabeth on Saturday. She is spending a few days with Mrs. Mabel Rivers before flying to Sebring, Fla., for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston attended the C. C. R.C.'s Square dance at King Jr. and stayed at the Swiss Chalet for the night. On Sunday they drove to the North Star Orchards of Madison for the 3rd annual free fun square dance. Hot coffee and hot cider was provided by the Orchards. The Arnold Trail Squares provided the sandwiches and apple pie and cheese. Seven callers from the local area and one caller were on hand for the free dance. Five couples were guests at Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McCourt's of New Sharon, for a buffet supper afterwards.

I believe that someone slipped up or goofed, we will have a mid-week holiday. This is an unusual event, and I know that the hunters will take advantage of it.

The group of hunters who went to Moosehead Lake for a week of early hunting, came home empty handed, but they had a good time and consumed a lot of food. On Saturday morning, Harlan Abbott, in company of his brothers, Jimmy and Howard, went into the woods and each came out with a deer. Harlan's weighed 120 lbs. and should be just right for eating. At the end of the deer season, my deer will still be running free. I will have a pot of mince-meat, even if I fail to get a deer.

Doris Lawrence has received word of the sudden death of Mrs. Kay Coffin, wife of her brother, Arnold Coffin of Paramus, N. J., due to a coronary. She will be missed by all her friends here in town. Arnold will come here shortly.

NEWS FROM ADULT AND COMMUNITY EDUCATION

S.A.D. #44's Adult and Community Education program ended a busy week of special programs and workshops with a Microwave Cooking Demonstration presented by Brenda Eddy, Home Economist with Central Maine Power Company, for a class of over 30 people. Brooks Brothers, Inc. of Bethel donated the oven used for the class. A variety of food items were prepared and explanations given for the use of microwave ovens.

Preparations are now in progress by many of the Fall term Adult and Community Education classes for the Learning Fair which will be held at Telstar Regional High School on Wednesday, Dec. 2. The evening will begin with a pot-luck supper for students and teachers from Adult and Community Education classes and their families. The supper will be held in the Telstar Cafeteria beginning at 6, with those attending bringing a hot-dish, salad or dessert. Following the supper, a Learning Fair featuring demonstrations and exhibits will be held in the Gym. The atmosphere will be informal with fair-goers able to walk through the exhibit areas at their leisure, viewing the products and skills resulting from the many courses offered this fall as part of the Adult and Community Education program. Some of the courses participating will be Aerobic Dancing, Christmas Crafts, First Aid, Toy-making, Machine Embroidery, Rug Braiding, Foods Lab and many more. A variety of other groups which provide a learning experience have been invited to participate as well.

The Learning Fair will conclude with a special Christmas Concert in the Telstar Auditorium at 8 p. m. The Adult and Community Education Chorus, under the direction of Susan Mitchell, accompanied by Mary Valentine, will perform special Christmas music. This group of over thirty voices was started in September and has been meeting on Monday evenings weekly to prepare for their Christmas concert.

There will be no admission charged to events planned as part of the Learning Fair and the Fair is open to the public; one need not have enrolled in the Fall term to attend. In the event of a storm on Dec. 2, the Fair will be Dec. 3.

JACKSON-SILVER POST & UNIT

HOLD REGULAR MEETINGS

Jackson-Silver Post and Unit #68, Locke Mills, met for their regular meetings Nov. 5, and they were opened in form by Commander Charlie Mason and President Sylvia Dunham. Plans were finalized for the Veterans Day dinner. Publicity Chairman Fannie Cummings reported on her efforts the past three weeks and said they were successful, though frustrating. She was assisted by Eldon Bartlett.

The Unit voted in a new member, Mary Lyon, to make them 100% plus one. They will send $25 to the Tugus Gift Shop that opens Nov. 30, $10 for President's project, to put a permanent canopy over a barbecue pit at Tugus, and help the Community Christmas Basket fund with $20. They will give a gift to Miss Trina Halsey for her help to the ladies.

The Auxiliary wants to give a Good Citizen Award this year. The last recipient was Stephen Seames.

Sick cards were signed for Charlie Day and Louis Sciotte. Lella McAllister was reported ill, also.

Some members will try and attend the 90th birthday observance of Roland Haggott at the Norway Legion Hall, Nov. 15, at 2 p. m.

Visitor was Shane Lovejoy who sat quietly at a table with his color book and crayons. Popcorn was enjoyed at the close of the meetings.

Next event is a 4-H roller skating party at Motion 26, Oxford, on Nov. 19.

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

This week I have stayed close to my own driveway, lawns and woods because I've had a rather painful knee. But looking around, I could notice that Earth has relaxed, for its browns show a time of hesitancy. Soon the gray and white of winter will be flung over the land. A bit of a crocheted lacy line has appeared at the edge of the shore of the pond.

I looked at the bark of the trees. Have you ever noticed how dignified the beeches stand? Their bark is smooth and light steel gray and has tiny dots of black. They used to stand in groves covering valleys and low mountains, handsome with huge trunks and spreading branches. Many of these stands are now gone. Sometime lift your eyes to these gray philosophers and read the message that Nature gives.

The birches, I call the ladies of the hillsides, graceful and slender. Their robes are white and frilly.

By the driveway I noticed the bark of the maples. This is rough and mosses usually grow on it. Gullies and crevices are hard to the touch. Each tree has its own pattern and if you are interested in Nature now is the time to study them.

In this place where our cabin now stands there were once many maples and they were tapped for the making of syrup. Clyde cleared some away and prepared the land for our lawns and home. There are still many on the hillside, near granite boulders, ravines or brooks. They stand in friendly firmness. Over my desk is a picture of my nephew with his lips to a spile in one of these trees having his first taste of sweetness from the sap, while his tiny mittened hands are clasping the tree. How proud he was when this picture won a blue ribbon in a snapshot contest. He is now grown but I'm sure he remembers that, and how we roamed the hills together. The loveliest floral arrangement that I ever had was held in the little hands that are clasping the tree; two daisies, four clovers, stray wisps of grass and a buttercup.

The oaks still cling to their brown leathery foliage. With the sun on them there were shafts of gold light which made patterns on the ground cover. There are few acorns this year.

Even if I walked little I saw much.

The moon came early and shone on the pond. It seemed as if the sky were a huge inverted bowl, lined with black velvet and sprinkled with dots of shining gold.

Twilight, the glow of a November evening had taken over the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and family, Windsor and Ann Holt, Bethel, visited Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt.

We visited Carroll Nottage in South Paris on Sunday.

Frank and Dorothy Curtis spent Saturday evening with Ralph and Regina Leeper at their camp.

MAINE RESIDENTS HAVE HIGHEST BLOOD PRESSURE

Maine residents have a higher chance of developing high blood pressure than the rest of the nation, according to a survey released by the Maine Department of Human Services.

DHS Commissioner Michael R. Petit said the study, completed by the University of Maine at Orono Social Science Research Institute, shows that one of every four residents over 18 may have high blood pressure.

The national figure is one of every five.

Between 15,000 and 21,000 are being treated for high blood pressure (hypertension) and between 11,500 and 17,500 have their hypertension under control, according to the survey.

The survey was a joint project of the department and the Medical Care Development, Inc. It took two years to complete.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, is a major contributing factor to the nation's leading cause of death—heart and blood vessel disease. In addition, uncontrolled high blood pressure appears to aggravate and accelerate such health conditions as arteriosclerosis and kidney failure.

To help determine the extent of the problem in Maine, a scientific sample of households throughout the state was chosen and face-to-face interviews were attempted with all persons in those households who were 18 years of age or older. A total of 1,255 interviews were completed, with each interviewer taking three blood measurements from each respondent.

The results of the survey show that the rate of high blood pressure among Maine noninstitutionalized adult residents is 24%. These are individuals who either have been diagnosed by a physician as hypertensive and are currently on prescribed medication or are undiagnosed and have a diastolic blood pressure which is higher than normal.

This prevalence rate is higher than the estimate of 20% for white adults in the U. S.

Of the Maine residents interviewed who are hypertensive, 15% are aware that they have high blood pressure, 64% are currently taking medications for high blood pressure and 51% are treated and controlled.

"While these figures are fairly high compared to similar survey data in other states, it is still of concern that approximately half of Maine's hypertensives are not well controlled," Commissioner Petit said.

The survey found that, in general, more men than women have elevated blood pressures, but that women are more likely to be under a doctor's care for their hypertension and to have lowered their blood pressure to a normal range through medication.

It was also found that more men than women have hypertension that can be classified as severe. Among those interviewed, middle-aged (41-60) and elderly (61-80 years) individuals were more likely to have elevated blood pressures than those in the younger (18-40) age group.

The survey also indicates the older one gets, the more likely one is to be aware of the problem, be treated, and have it under control. Those who have well controlled high blood pressure comprise 17% of the total hypertensives in the 18-20 age group, while those who were well controlled represent 73% of the total hypertensives in the 61-80 age group.

One other important factor in high blood pressure control in Maine appears to be weight. The survey shows that overweight individuals tend to have the highest proportion of adults with elevated blood pressure, as compared to thin or normal weight individuals.

The survey will be used by the Maine Department of Human Services, the Maine High Blood Pressure Council, and the Hypertensive Control Project to determine priorities for high blood pressure

The two sites, the Town Farm location and the property owned by John Coolidge, are hayfields.

The Town Farm site is owned by the town. It is across the road from the town landfill on Routes 2 and 26 and contains 130 acres.

One activity being considered for these groups is increased professional education programs to alert medical care workers to the need for routine measurement of blood pressure of the overweight and young or middle-aged males in all medical care settings.

An increase of blood pressure detection, referral and follow-up programs in work sites will also be encouraged to improve hypertension control in working males.
